WHO WE ARE

Heavy machinery is vital in many industries. At Setson, we pride ourselves in provision of such machinery and services to our clients in the various industries.

BUILDING SUPPLIES

The next step after preparing a construction site is sourcing for building material including: ballast, sand, red soil, building stone, cement and piping

BACKFILLING

This is what you usually fill in the vacuum left after excavating a project. Most of the time after excavating the foundation of the project you are undertaking, you are forced to fill in that area with stronger materials or whatever your engineer proposes.

We source for many of the materials used for that purpose and a compactor with vibration capability to compact the area to required standards.

EXCAVATION

We provide excavation services for various projects that require the service. The charges are made in per hour terms as is the norm. Other terms are stipulated upon agreement and before signing of a contract as different projects dictate different specifications and requirements.

DUMPING

Whether you are doing demolition, remodeling, or construction, there is always the time sensitive and costly process of getting rid of leftover debris. Concrete, wood, steel, tiling and drywall all can be extremely difficult to haul off of a construction site.
